

Article Overview

Basic cable tray tools typically range from $10 for small accessories to $500+ for power tools, depending on type and quality.

Common Cable Tray Tools and Price Ranges

1. Metal Cutting Saws Used for cutting steel or aluminum trays. Prices vary by power and blade quality:

- o Manual or small electric saws: $100-$250

- o Heavy-duty professional saws: $300-$600

2. Drills and Drill Bits Essential for making holes in walls or floors:

- o Cordless drills: $50-$200

- o Drill bit sets: $15-$50

3. Fastening Tools Includes screwdrivers, wrenches, and pliers:

- o Phillips screwdrivers: $5-$20

- o Adjustable wrenches: $10-$40

- o Pliers or cable grips: $15-$50

4. Cable Tray Rollers and Pulling Tools Facilitate smooth cable deployment and prevent wire damage:

- o Basic cable tray rollers: $10-$30 per piece

- o Example: 2-piece blue cable wire threading tool on Amazon costs around $20

5. Additional Accessories

- o Cable feeders, winches, and walkie-talkies for large projects: $50-$200 each

Where to Buy

- o Amazon: Offers a wide range of cable tray rollers, drills, and hand tools with customer reviews and shipping options

- o eBay: Good for both new and used tools, including wire mesh trays and under-desk cable management solutions

- o McMaster-Carr: Provides professional-grade cable installation tools with same-day delivery options

- o Google Shopping: Useful for comparing prices across multiple online and local stores

Buying Considerations

- o Project Size: Large installations may require heavy-duty tools, while small projects can use manual or mid-range tools.

- o Tool Quality: Durable materials and reliable brands reduce maintenance and improve safety.

- o Training: Proper handling ensures efficiency and prevents accidents

By considering these price ranges and sources, you can budget effectively for basic cable tray installation tools.
